Presence in finished products of additives potentially classifiable as nano materials

Esseco s.r.l. - Enartis Division declares that it has carried out a full review of the ingredients used for the finished products, taking into account the definition of engineered nano material declined to art. 2 of Reg UE 1169/2011 following the most restrictive interpretation about aggregates and agglomerates with dimensions greater than 100nm, but having characteristic properties of the nanometric scale

There are no additives present in Enartis products range with mandatory declaration on the label, potentially classifiable as being nano materials
